Consolidation Company Stone House
Eckhart

c. 1840

The building was constructed by the Consolidation Coal Company around 1840 for the purpose of supplying housing to the mining supervisors living in the Eckhart Community. The house is a two story high, three bay wide rubble stone constructed facade, and is much larger than any of the other early company structures. A brick wing and adjoining frame wing abut the main block on the rear southwest side. The facade features six-over-six light windows with stone cornices and a bulkhead entrance to the basement is found on the northwest side.

DESCRIBE THE PRESENT AND ORIGINAL (IF KNOWN) PHYSICAL APPEARANCE

The old company stone house is located along old Rt. 40 in Eckhart, Allegany County on the southwest side of the road, East of the intersection of Rt. 36.

The house consists of a two story, three bay wide rectangular shaped main facade. Two rear wings abut the main block on the southwest side. The rear wing, forming an "L" with the main block is built of American common bond brick construction, while the remaining wing is a frame structure. The main facade is constructed of stone with rubble bond and is supported with the same construction foundation with no apparent water table. A bulkhead entrance to the basement is found on the northwest side of the foundation. The roof of the house is gabled and features broad soffits and frieze, and is covered by replaced asphalt shingles. Windows in the structure include double hung wooden sash frames with six-over-six lights and a stone pediment on the flat arches. The main entrance is found on the front northeast face and features the original recessed, verticle paneled door and includes a transom and three sectional transom light. A one story three bay end porch covers the entrance and exhibits a shed roof supported by plain square columns and brick foundation. A smaller porch is located to the rear of the northwest side, and it also has a shed roof supported by square columns which abut the frame wing. One corbeled brick chimney, which is original is located at the flush end of northwest gable.

The house is structurally very sound and appears to be in very near original appearance other than the replaced roof materials.

STATEMENT OF SIGNIFICANCE

The old company stone house was built between 1840 and 1860 by the Consolidation Coal Company. The structure was built by the company in order to supply housing for the supervisors of the mining industry in the Eckhart community. The house is much larger and more fashionably designed than any of the other company houses, and the second story and two rear wings give evidence to this. This house, along with several others, were built during the peak of the coal operations in Eckhart; which at the time was one of the largest and most productive coal operations in the world. The house's near original appearance and fairly good condition certainly enhances the cultural and mining heritage which certainly played a large part in Allegany County's history.
